

Communication & Language

To stay safe we must stay at home. Why don't you ask a grown up to call a friend or a family member who you miss seeing at this time? During these times only people who are called key workers must still go to work. Use the internet to find out who is a key worker.

Personal, Social & Emotional

Talk about who is in your family. Take this time to look at photographs and discuss the different roles that people play in your family. Is anyone in your family a key worker? What is your role in your family? Do you tidy up your toys (like a cleaner)? Do you help cook the tea (like a chef)?

Physical Development

Captain Tom Moore, who is 99 completed a 100 lap challenge of his garden! He did this to raise money for the NHs, who are working really hard to protect us. Ask a grown up to set a timer and see how many laps of the garden you can do in 1 minute!

Understanding the World

If we were in school our new Come and See topic would be 'Good News'. Now more than ever we need to think of things that make us happy! Can you draw a picture of some good news or something that makes you smile? Share with us a video on Twitter of your good news.

Expressive Arts & Design

We would love it if you could take part in our #stambrosethankyouchallenge. Design a rainbow and messages for our fantastic key workers to display in your window. You could even have a go at making a sponge rainbow, have a look on the internet for some ideas.
