

Communication & Language

'I Spy...' is a super game to get your child thinking, listening, looking and talking! At home, play 'I Spy...' games together. You could try this in different rooms of your house, as well as outside.

Remember to continue to sing Nursery Rhymes as often as possible together. Nursery Rhymes are an important tool to understand and hear rhyming words.

Personal, Social & Emotional

Last week, we encouraged you to spend time together talking about the things that worry you and the things that make you happy.

We are trying to get together a list of things children are worried about as we think about transitioning to the next year group. Please let us know what your child might be worrying about.

Physical Development

If you have a ball at home, set up your very own football match. Create a goal using two markers - How many times can you shoot the ball in to the goal? Football is more than just kicking. The goal keeper plays a very important role. Ask an adult or other family member to help you develop throwing and catching skills. How many times can you catch a ball in 30 seconds?
